

Jill Tummler Singer

Federal Chief Information Officer Emeritus

Ms. Jill Tummler Singer recently completed 27 years of federal service and is now the Owner of Tummler Singer Associates, LLC, a woman-owned consulting firm focused on transformation, strategy, leadership, and technology. As a federal employee, she was the Chief Information Officer (CIO) for the National Reconnaissance Office (NRO) and the Deputy CIO for the Central Intelligence Agency.

Ms. Singer served in several senior leadership positions within the Federal Government including Director of the Diplomatic Telecommunications Service, U.S. Department of State and Chief of Systems Engineering, Architecture, and Planning for CIA's global infrastructure organization. She held industry positions with Science Applications International Corporation, Inc. (SAIC), GE Aerospace, and IBM. She received her MS in Systems Analysis and BS in Computer Science from the University of West Florida. She graduated from several leadership programs including the Federal Executive Leadership Program and the University of Virginia's (UVA) Executive Leaders Program.

Ms. Singer currently serves as an Executive-on-Ground for the UVA McIntire School of Commerce and is a member of the AFCEA International Cyber Committee. She received numerous awards including CloudNow's Lifetime Achievement in Information Technology Legacy Award (2013); Top Ten Global Breakaway CIO (2012); Top Ten Women in Cloud (2012); Ten Most Powerful Women in Federal Technology (2011); CIA Mentor of the Year (2010); CIO Executive Council "Ones to Watch" (2010); and CIO Magazine Stand-Out Award for Collaboration and Influence (2010). She is also an accomplished speaker and published author (<http://jillsinger.ulitzer.com>).

(March 2013)