

Brian M. Mazanec
Senior Defense Analyst, U.S. GAO

Brian Mazanec is a senior defense analyst with professional experience supporting a range of government organizations. He currently works for the U.S. Government Accountability Office's Defense Capabilities and Management Team where he provides timely analyses, recommendations, and policy options to congressional and Executive Branch officials to improve policies and programs on a wide range of defense issues. Brian's assignments have included reviews of the Air Force's strategic planning; Intelligence, Surveillance, and Reconnaissance (ISR) capabilities in Afghanistan; ISR enterprise integration and investments; ISR collection and tasking management; the National Geospatial-Intelligence agency technology center; and an ongoing review of ISR global force management. Prior to his current assignment, he worked in the Joint Staff; Office of the Secretary of Defense; Defense Threat Reduction Agency; Department of Homeland Security; and the Intelligence Community. Brian holds a B.A. in political science from the University of Richmond; a M.S. in defense and strategic studies from Missouri State University's Virginia-based Department of Defense and Strategic Studies with a thesis on Chinese cyber warfare; and is currently a doctoral candidate at George Mason University's school of Public and International Affairs with a dissertation focused on the emergence of norms for the use of force in cyberspace.