

Mr. Kevin D.J. Nolten, M.B.A.

Director of Academic Outreach, Cyber Innovation Center

Director, National Integrated Cyber Education Research Center

Kevin Nolten serves as Director of Academic Outreach for the Cyber Innovation Center. With 13 years of management experience, six of which in K-12 education, Kevin is responsible for the operations of NICERC, an organization funded by a multi-million dollar federal grant, charged with developing STEM, cyber, and computer science curricula, professional development, and other resources for K-12 educators, school districts, and state departments of education across the country. Kevin's visionary passion and philosophy has led to the expansion of Cyber Innovation Center's workforce programs to communities across the country – all with the goal of developing the next-generation cyber-literate workforce. Prior to joining the Cyber Innovation Center, Kevin served as an Assistant Principal of a K-8 school in Louisiana. Kevin is a graduate of Louisiana State University with a Bachelor of Science degree and a Master's in Business Administration.
