

Marc Jones, Director (vol) of the Consortium for IT Software Quality (CISQ)

Marc Jones is an active speaker, panelist and contributor for organizations centered around IT software standards, open source risk issues, agile governance, (IT) acquisition governance and software cyber security issues. Marc is the Director of the Consortium for IT Software Quality (CISQ), an IT industry leadership group comprised of IT executives, system integrators, outsourced service providers and software technology vendors committed to introducing a computable metrics standard for measuring software quality & size for improving IT application quality to reduce cost and risk.

In addition, Marc serves as the head of CAST's public sector, including the U.S. state and local Federal government, Canadian Federal government and the dedicated System Integrators and Consultancies. He manages key strategic global and national commercial accounts and has held various field and leadership roles. With a focus on Enterprise IT application risk governance solutions and standards, Marc specializes in catering to corporate and government CIO's, CFO's, PEO/Program Executives and Vice Presidents within IT, in addition to their counterparts in the global system integrator IT application and solution delivery community.